PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Boehms Goaltending, Training & Exposure, Johnston, Rhode Island

2010 to Present

Owner/Instructor

Implemented new-venture plans to launch a successful training program for hockey goaltenders of all ages after recognizing and pursuing a passion for coaching that surfaced after goaltending at the tier-III level in the Eastern Junior Hockey League and after excelling as a coaching staff member with numerous summer hockey clinics. Hold profit-loss accountability across all business functions, including program development, marketing, business management, training curriculum implementation, and public relations.

Scope of business operations includes scouting local rinks to identify athletes with strong potential, conducting private and group lessons with players at varying ability levels, and maximizing exposure for outstanding athletes to showcase talents and improve outcomes for advancement within competitive leagues.

- Manage all aspects of business logistics, including the scheduling of rental time at local ice rinks, the recruitment and hiring of local coaches and players to serve as support staff, and the cultivation of relationships within the community to advance promotional initiatives.
- Coach a select group of high-potential athletes exhibiting the core talent, determination, and commitment required to perform at optimal competitive levels. Plan and execute instructional strategies while implementing age-appropriate training programs that are responsive to students' varying ability and experience levels.
- Refine goaltenders' abilities through coaching and skills-training that integrates effective systems and techniques, with an emphasis on current butterfly-style maneuvers used by professionals.
- Incorporate strength training, endurance training, and technical skill-building routines into training regimens to improve learning outcomes and sustain students' motivational levels.
- Organize and conduct summer clinics that provide opportunities for athletes to enhance proficiency levels during the off season while gaining the competitive advantage required to attain next-level advancement.
- Maximize and showcase biographies and profiles on an innovative website that provides coaches and athlete scouts with a platform for accessing goaltenders' career statistics, awards, and game footage.
- Delivered consistent coaching/training performance results over the course of six seasons, with player-development accomplishments that include the following:
 - Coached/trained a student who was presented with the Gil Mayer Award for goaltending
 - Coached/trained a student who was presented with the Cox Rhode Island Sports Award
 - Coached/trained nine students named to All-Division teams
 - Coached/trained two students named to All-State teams
 - Coached/trained goaltenders at five different high school teams that won championship titles
 - Coached/trained two students named as high school playoff series MVPs
 - Coached/trained numerous "Athletes of the Week," team MVPs, and All-Stars
